

Let Me Take You Down...

'IDB alum Randy Lynch recently ventured to Carbondale to visit his fave haunts on Illinois Avenue. Beacon photographers were there to capture the moment...

First stop, Hanger 9...
"Still hangin'," says our happy wanderer. Flaps up, old boy!

Next, the Valhalla of Breakfast, Mary Lou's...
"Mary Lou has retired," says Randy, "but let's hear it for free biscuits and gravy all day!"

All well and good, but man (or woman) cannot live on biscuits and gravy alone. Fortunately, Wuxtry is still in business. "They moved from the North Strip to the South Strip," said Randy, after buying a used copy of Trout Mask Replica. "Outside of some interior improvement, you won't notice any difference."

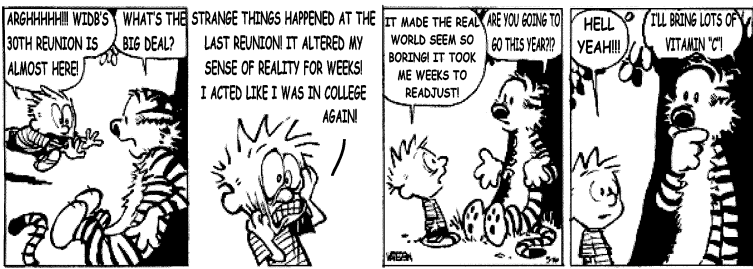

Time for the intrepid Mr. Lynch to whet his whistle. But what's this?
"The American Tap is still closed," our parched reporter reports. Still waiting for the smell of vomit to subside, too, we see!

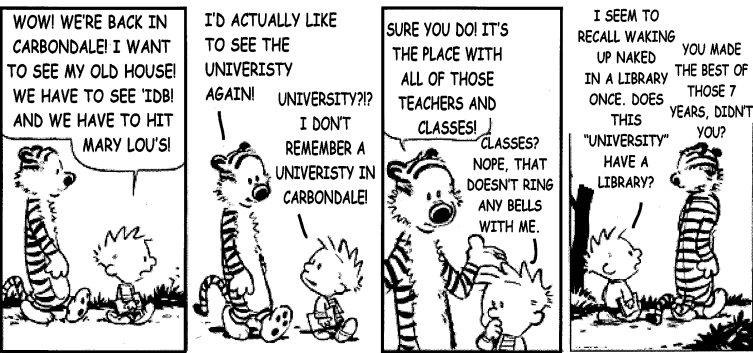

Catch these and more highlights from Randy's trip down Memory Lane, and see them in color, by checking out the extended report on www.widbnetwork.org!
